

4-14-2012

The science of archiving our national treasures

Nadia Nasr

Santa Clara University, nnasr@scu.edu

Leslie Long

Follow this and additional works at: <http://scholarcommons.scu.edu/library>

Part of the Library and Information Science Commons

Recommended Citation

Nasr, Nadia and Long, Leslie, "The science of archiving our national treasures" (2012). University Library. Paper 118.
<http://scholarcommons.scu.edu/library/118>

Presentation given at a Towson University Hackerman Academy of Mathematics and Science Saturday Morning Science Series session, Towson, MD.

This Presentation is brought to you for free and open access by the Information Services at Scholar Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in University Library by an authorized administrator of Scholar Commons. For more information, please contact rscroggin@scu.edu.

Hackerman Academy of Mathematics and Science Saturday Morning Science Program

“The Science of Archiving and Preserving Our National Treasures”

Leslie Long, Library of Congress Preservation Specialist

Nadia Nasr, Towson University Archivist

Archiving
Towson
University

United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice

We the People

of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, We ordain and Article I, Section 1. All legislative Powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives.

We the People of the United States
do hereby establish this Constitution for the United States
Article 1

We the People of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common defence, promote the general Welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

Article. 1.

Section. 1. All legislative Powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives.

Fancy Box

1811
1812

1813

We the People

of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common Defence, promote the general Welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

Article. 1.

Section. 1. All legislative Powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives.

Questions?

We the People of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common defence, promote the general Welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

Article 1.

Section 1. All legislative Powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives.

Hands-On Demonstrations

We the People

of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common Defense, promote the general Welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

Section 1

Article I

Tearing It Up

We the People

of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common Defense, promote the general Welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

We the People

of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common Defense, promote the general Welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do hereby constitute this Constitution for the United States of America.

DANGERS of DIRT

We the People

of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common Defense, promote the general Welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do hereby constitute and ordain these United States to be one Nation, under God, the Principles of Justice, in Foundation, Liberty and Union, now, and forever, one and inseparable; and do hereby establish and confirm the Constitution, the Laws, and the Offices, and all just Authorities, derived therefrom, in and to each State, and in all Territories under their respective Jurisdictions.

