Government Shutdown Affects University

Fair, club deal with lack of federal presence

Mallory Miller
Nick Ostiller
THE SANTA CLARA

Who knew a Congressional stalemate regarding Obamacare could influence a private institution like Santa Clara?

Although the government has shut down due to discord in Washington D.C., people all over the country have felt the immediate repercussions of the decision.

Several federally funded organizations canceled their scheduled appearance at Wednesday’s Fall Career Fair following the government shutdown earlier this week. The CIA, NASA and the Center for Disease Control were among the organizations that did not attend due to the lack of a budget resolution on Capitol Hill, according to Career Center Director Elspeth Rossetti.

While the CDC, CIA and NASA were coming to campus to recruit potential employees, a branch of the U.S. Navy based at Pearl Harbor in Hawaii was set to officially hire engineers during its visit. Now those students will have to wait, and perhaps reevaluate their plans following graduation.

“It’s an indicator for students who might want to work in government,” said Rossetti. “They might think, ‘Is this really something I want to do?’

These organizations gave the university very little notice that they would not be making their scheduled visits at the Career Fair. It wasn’t until Monday — just hours before the shutdown went into effect — that the CDC and CIA notified the Career Center of their cancellations.

The CDC, based in Atlanta, Ga., was set to make its inaugural visit to Santa Clara in response to the new public health major offered at the university. The CIA was going to be www.thesantaclara.org            @thesantaclara            thesantaclara.tumblr.com

Several federally funded organizations such as the CIA, NASA and the Center for Disease Control were forced to cancel their visits to the Fall Career Fair on Wednesday after Congress failed to reach a budget resolution this week and the government shut down.

See STUDENTS, Page 4

New Kids on the Block
Meet Santa Clara’s newest student-athletes
SPORTS, PAGE 11

WHAT’S INSIDE

News ........................................ 1 – 4
Opinion ..................................... 5 – 6
Scene ....................................... 7 – 9
Sports .................................... 10 – 12

Since 1922

One free copy

Thursday, October 3, 2013
1. Greek far-right crackdown follows violence spike: Before stepping out of his house, Asif Ali gives his route careful consideration. The 28-year-old builder from Pakistan blames far-right street gangs for three attacks he suffered near his home in a poor area of Athens where a recent killing triggered Greece’s crackdown on the Nazi-inspired Golden Dawn party. Ali says he was beaten unconscious by a group of men dressed in black, attacked months later by a gang on motorcycles and assaulted again last December when three men boarded the bus he was taking and broke his nose. Greek authorities arrested Golden Dawn’s top leaders this weekend after the slaying of anti-fascist rapper Pavlos Fyssas — allegedly by a Golden Dawn volunteer. Doctors, activists and victims greeted the news with relief but argued authorities should have acted much earlier, saying the killing was the culmination of a months-long increase in the brutality and brazenness of attacks by extreme-right street gangs.

From AP Reports.

2. Cuba faces challenges in push to end dual currency: Cuba is the only country in the world that mints two national currencies, a bizarre system that even President Raul Castro acknowledges is hamstringing the island’s socialist economy and must be scrapped. Months after Castro made currency unification a centerpiece of a forceful address to parliament, no details have been made public. However, a pilot program operating under the radar might hold clues to how Cuba will make more money driving taxis or evidence.

The imbalance means doctors can attend to them receive a much more valuable peso pegged at one-to-one with the U.S. greenback. The imbalance means doctors can make more money driving taxis or evidence.

The economy and society in general. Setting up a national currency unification a centerpiece of a forceful address to parliament, no details have been made public. However, a pilot program operating under the radar might hold clues to how Cuba will make more money driving taxis or evidence.

From AP Reports.

3. Wave of bombs across Baghdad kills 55: A new wave of bombs tore through Baghdad on Monday, officials said, killing at least 55 people. Most of the blasts were car bombs detonated in Shiite neighborhoods, the latest in a series of well-coordinated attacks blamed on hard-line Sunni insurgents determined to rekindle large-scale sectarian conflict.

Multiple coordinated bombing strikes have hit Baghdad repeatedly over the last five months. The Shiite-led government has announced new security measures, conducted counter-insurgency sweeps of areas believed to hold insurgent hideouts and sponsored political reconciliation talks, but has not significantly slowed the pace of the bombing campaign. No group immediately claimed responsibility for the bombings, but they bore the hallmarks of al-Qaida’s local branch in Iraq, Al-Qada is believed to be trying to build on the Sunni minority’s discontent toward what they consider to be second-class treatment by the government and on infighting between groups.

From AP Reports.

4. Court in Amanda Knox trial allows new DNA test: The Florence appellate court hearing U.S. student Amanda Knox’s third trial in her roommate’s murder agreed Monday to run additional DNA tests on the presumed weapon, but rejected more than a dozen other defense requests for new testimony or evidence.

On the trial’s opening day, presiding Judge Alessandro Nencini said the court agreed to test one DNA trace not previously examined on the knife that prosecutors alleged killed British student Meredith Kercher. The trace had previously been deemed too small to test. Italy’s highest court in March ordered a new trial for Knox and her Italian co-defendant, ex-boyfriend Raffaele Sollecito, after overturning their acquittals in Kercher’s November 2007 killing. Knox, now a 26-year-old University of Washington student in Seattle, has not returned to Italy for the current trial, nor is she compelled by law to do so. Sollecito, now 29, likewise did not attend the trial.

From AP Reports.

2. Cuba faces challenges in push to end dual currency: Cuba is the only country in the world that mints two national currencies, a bizarre system that even President Raul Castro acknowledges is hamstringing the island’s socialist economy and must be scrapped. Months after Castro made currency unification a centerpiece of a forceful address to parliament, no details have been made public. However, a pilot program operating under the radar might hold clues to how Cuba will make more money driving taxis or evidence.

The imbalance means doctors can attend to them receive a much more valuable peso pegged at one-to-one with the U.S. greenback. The imbalance means doctors can make more money driving taxis or evidence.

The economy and society in general. Setting up a national currency unification a centerpiece of a forceful address to parliament, no details have been made public. However, a pilot program operating under the radar might hold clues to how Cuba will make more money driving taxis or evidence.

From AP Reports.
Canvas Camino Replaces Angel Software

Eryn Olson
THE SANTA CLARA

A new program has made its way onto campus. Canvas Camino, currently in the process of replacing Angel Camino, has several interactive features intended to strengthen communication between students and professors in order to create a stronger learning environment.

Canvas enables professors to create wikis and blogs, post documents online, create discussions, receive uploaded assignments, and conduct email messages all via one integrated software.

SpeedGrader is one of Canvas’ most unique attributes. It provides professors with a microphone feature enabling them to give verbal feedback on students’ assignments.

According to Ron Danielson, Ph.D. Vice Provost for Information Services and Chief Information Officer, Santa Clara had been using Camino with the Angel learning management system since fall 2003.

Blackboard, an aggressive technology company, bought Angel in 2009 and had scheduled to discontinue its support of Angel in 2014. In March 2012, Blackboard promised to extend its maintenance “indefinitely,” but Santa Clara began to look for a replacement.

In a message sent from Danielson to faculty and staff last May, he explained how the university had spent the past year searching for “an application that would better support faculty trying to integrate best practices in their design of face-to-face, hybrid, blended and online courses.”

In the fall of 2012, 10 faculty members and 400 students began to pilot three learning management systems: Canvas, Desire2Learn and Blackboard Learn.

Communication Professor Katharine Heintz piloted the Blackboard site with two of her classes during the spring of 2013. Although she and her students were initially interested in Blackboard Learn, Heintz said that “as the quarter went on, we grew to hate it.” They ended up using Canvas Angel as well, which made things more confusing for Heintz and her students.

Danielson said the “overwhelming preference from the faculty and students was for Canvas, based on ease of use, functionality and the level of tech support received during the pilot.”

In a survey taken last spring, 91 percent of students agreed that Canvas was too easy to learn. Additionally, 70 percent of students thought that Canvas was more efficient than Camino Angel.

Heintz admitted that it takes time and patience to get adjusted to the new system and trying to “think like a machine,” but she believes it is worth it.

“I’ve been working for a while on it and I want this stuff to look good, and I’m having fun playing with some of the features to do what I hope makes the assignments and the information more accessible,” said Heintz.

Faculty members still have the option of using Angel through the end of December, so some professors may have to juggle both systems for fall quarter. Access to both accounts can be found through the login menu on the university homepage.

Students who want more information or need help can contact Media Services or go to the “Help” tab located in the upper right corner of Canvas, which links to the Canvas Student Quickstart Guide.

Contact Eryn Olson atolson@scu.edu or call (408) 554-4852.

---

Yearly Service Draws Crowd

Naushaba Khan
THE SANTA CLARA

The annual Mass of the Holy Spirit is a time for individuals to gather in the present, reflect on the past and look toward a future of possibilities.

On Wednesday, the centuries-old tradition was held in the Mission Church. Following the mass, the community received guidance and blessings for the new year. The prayers of the mass are purposed toward calling upon the Spirit of God to be with the community through classes, work, activities and general ambitions. Santa Clara’s president, Michael E. Engh, S.J., said, “This is a unique opportunity for all groups within the Santa Clara community to gather as one academic family seeking wisdom and courage.”

The annual Roman Catholic liturgy was open to all who wished to attend.

“I think it’s wonderful that our school puts on the Mass of the Holy Spirit,” said sophomore Jacqualyn Colman. “I especially like that students from all types of religious backgrounds get together and attend this mass, even though it’s a Catholic ceremony. Its good to see that type of acceptance and community.”

Many of the university’s organizations took part in the mass.

Sophomore Audrey Gomes, a member of the church and gospel choir said, “It is great to see so all the groups from around campus, such as the different (Residential Learning Communities), Emergency Medical Technicians and even advisors, administrators, faculty, students and friends come together.”

The academic term has begun with the joined hands of equally ambitious Broncos, who have the same prayer for a successful year.

Contact Naushaba Khan at nakhan@scu.edu or call (408) 554-4852.

---

Students from a diverse array of religious backgrounds celebrated the Mass of the Holy Spirit on Wednesday. The community prayed and called upon the Spirit of God to be present throughout the year and to bless students with a successful and safe year.

---

The Santa Clara News
March 2, 2009

CAMPUS SAFETY

Alcohol Related Medical Emergency

9/26: A student was reported intoxicated and was found sleeping in a bathroom. CSS and SCU EMS responded. He was brought back to his room and left in the care of his roommate.

9/27: A student was reported intoxicated and unable to care for herself at The Bronco at Benson Memorial Center. CSS and SCU EMS responded. The student was escorted back to her room.

Alcohol Violation

9/25: A student was observed carrying alcoholic beverages in his backpack and attempting to conceal the backpack. Due to his combative and uncooperative nature, SCPD was contacted and responded. In addition to alcoholic beverages, marijuana paraphernalia and false IDs were found inside his backpack and were confiscated.

9/27: Students were found in possession of alcoholic beverages and marijuana paraphernalia in their room. Items found were confiscated and disposed of.

9/28: Students were found in possession of alcoholic beverages, marijuana and paraphernalia in their room. All items found were confiscated and disposed of.

Impounded Bicycle

9/26: A Google bicycle was impounded outside of The Harrington Learning Commons.

Medical Emergency

9/27: A student reported having an anxiety attack and feeling ill. CSS and SCU EMS responded.

9/28: A non-affiliate visitor jammed her big toe at the main entrance of the Harrington Learning Commons and injured her toenail. CSS responded. She refused further medical assistance.

9/29: A student injured his eyelid while playing basketball at Pat Malley Fitness and Recreation Center. CSS and SCU EMS responded.

9/29: A student injured his ankle while playing basketball in Pat Malley Fitness and Recreation Center. CSS and SCU EMS responded.

Non-Injury Traffic Accident

9/26: A vehicle was reportedly found damaged while parked in the Parking Structure.

9/26: A vehicle hit another parked vehicle while backing out of a parking space in the Parking Structure and sustained minor damage.

Student Behavior

9/26: A student was observed carrying a City of Santa Clara street sign on Market Street. SCPD was contacted and responded. The student was admonished and the sign was returned to the city.

9/27: Several students were observed causing a disturbance by shouting toward residents’ rooms outside of Shig Hall in the middle of the night. They were admonished and documented.

Theft

9/27: An ethernet cable was reported stolen from the computer on the first floor of The Harrington Learning Commons.

9/29: A laptop computer was reported stolen from the Saint Clare room in The Harrington Learning Commons.

9/29: A bicycle was reported stolen outside the Healey Law Library.

From Campus Safety Reports.
Email news@thesantaclara.com.
Sustainability Fostered Through Blog Project

Department’s collaboration rooted in faith tradition

Mallory Miller
THE SANTA CLARA

Campus Ministry and the Office of Sustainability are inviting students to fully engage in the spirituality of sustainability by participating in the Mission Sustainable Challenge. The challenge gives students the opportunity to partake in daily action to truly be “green,” and to reflect on their experiences doing so.

A single post will be put up every day in the month of October on the Mission Sustainable Challenge blog, which can be accessed through the Santa Clara website, Facebook and through the iPhone mobile application “Act On.”

Each post will ask students to do something sustainable on that particular day, such as go meatless on Tuesdays, advocate for a local nature preserve, assess how much water they use or meditate on food consumption.

There will be a space below the post provided to create discussion about the challenge. “A lot of people go ‘green,’” but Santa Clara’s green commitment is rooted in the values of our faith tradition,” said Director of Retention MaryClaire Landry.

“While everyone here may not be Catholic, there are still values rooted in that faith tradition.”

The ministry uses five words: learn, pray, act, assess and advocate in the scope of engaging the spirituality of sustainability. Those words are part of the Catholic toolkit of sustainability, one of many resources within faith-based groups to support care for the environment.

The Catholic Coalition on Climate Change, Pope Francis homilies inviting Catholics to take action for God’s creation, and the Jesuit community’s connection with the Franciscans are a few other resources available to support, conservation and green consciousness. The purpose of the challenge is to foster and deepen the spirituality of sustainability in the Santa Clara community and to strengthen connections between different departments, students and organizations across campus.

The blog is designed to not only challenge individuals, but to increase communication and conversation on the topic of sustainability in general. The Ministry hopes it will open availability of resources across campus as well.

Although the key collaborators of the project came from the Campus Ministry, Office of Sustainability and the Forge Garden, there are other departments involved, including religious studies, engineering, the Ignition Center, Pat Malley Fitness and Recreation Center and the Green Club.

There are also events planned to incorporate students across campus. On Oct. 23, the Mission Sustainable Challenge will be hosting a three-part symposium, Faith and Sustainability in Silicon Valley: Sharing the Vision, Building Community and Taking Action, in Nobili Hall from 5-8 p.m.

Students who sign up to participate will get daily reminders to go to the blog on the Santa Clara Campus Ministry Web page.

Contact Mallory Miller at memiller@scu.edu or call (408) 554-4852.

New Online Advising System Launched

It’s free, a potential gradesaver and available just a few clicks away. Santa Clara’s Drahmann Tutoring Center is offering an Internet-based advising system.

Drahmann Online, launched last week, allows students to directly communicate with Drahmann advisors, to sign up for workshops and to schedule private as well as group tutoring appointments. This quarter it will offer tutoring for foundation-level courses such as math, economics, Chinese, French, Italian, Spanish, and psychology.

“The Drahmann Online program will provide many new opportunities for students to connect with both advisors and tutors,” said Garrison Dyer, Integrations Pathways Advisor and Resident Learning Communities Advisor from Santa Clara’s Drahmann Advising and Learning Resources Center. “All students should register for their accounts as soon as possible and start taking advantage of the resources provided through the system.”

Tutoring sessions will be held weekly in Benson Room 1.

From staff reports. Email news@thesantaclara.com.
It’s Time to Graduate the Core Curriculum

I f you believe the reassurance-
es coming out of Washington D.C., the financial crisis that hit America after the collapse of Lehman Brothers Holdings Inc. five years ago is not likely to be repeated. They say the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act, passed in mid-2010, will “make sure that a crisis like this never happens again,” according to the White House official website.

That’s quite a big promise, but there is growing evidence that a crisis like the panic of 2008 could very well happen again. Although memories of the crisis are still fresh in the minds of laid-off workers and families that lost their homes, it seems to be a distant memory to bankers and their captured regulators.

The threats of concentration in the financial industry and the ex-losion of student debt have made another banking collapse a serious possibility. Recently, Robert H. Bensmos-che, the chief executive officer of American International Group Inc., (a massive insurance conglomerate and recipient of billions in bailout money), told The Wall Street Journal that “too big to fail has been solved.”

Bensomchese might like to think so, but the facts show otherwise.

Since the financial crisis, assets of the six biggest banks in the U.S. are up 37 percent and now control an even greater share of wealth than they did at the time of the crisis. Last week, Fortune Magazine declared, “By every measure, the big banks are bigger. Last year, Politico reported banks deemed too big to fail were “bigger than ever.”

The acquisition of Bear Stearns and Washington Mutual by JPMor-
pen Chase, Merrill Lynch by Bank of America and Wachovia by Wells Fargo have all contributed to this problem.

It would be nice to imagine that the banking system is safer than it was prior to the financial crisis, but the banks are engaging in the same practices that created the crisis, and on a larger scale.

As if buying up competitors isn’t enough, the big banks have jumped right back into the “shadow derivatives market”— where transactions occur outside the overview of traditional banks — that was culpable in the financial crisis. Banking reformer and attorney Ellen Brown highlighted how the value of the entire derivatives market, at $1.2 trillion, is 20 times the size of the world economy.

Since 2005, these transactions have been backed by the government, creating more perverse incentives for big banks to load up on risk. But it’s not just derivatives and conglomeration. Student loans may be the nail in the coffin for the next financial crisis.

The parallels between the housing sector and the student loan bubble are deep. In both cases, the federal government’s low interest rates and subsidized loans have incentivized banks to lend out money that they wouldn’t otherwise lend. And both cases share the good intentions of the federal government wanting to make something (hom-ownership and college education, respectively) affordable for people who are living on a tight budget. Writing in Rolling Stone magaazine, financial reporter Matt Taibbi compared the explosion in student debt (accounting for over 67 percent of last quarter’s rise in non-real estate household debt) to the growth of mortgage debt prior to the collapse of the housing market, which trigerged the financial crisis in 2008.

Since student loan debt recent-
tly topped $1 trillion and outpaced credit card debt for the first time ever, the next crisis could be even worse than the last one.

Although making college affordable is a worthy goal, the government’s subsidized loans may have the adverse effect of destabilizing the already fragile financial system.

Five years after a devastating recession, unemployment and underemployment remain high. And although Americans are tired of this terrible economy, the biggest banks are reaping the same acts that led to the crisis in 2008, and there’s no reason to expect this won’t happen again.

Alexandra Armas is a senior communication major.

Richard Fuld, former Chairman and CEO of Lehman Brothers Holdings Inc., testifies before Congress about the company’s bankruptcy in September of 2008. Many of the big banks that helped cause the 2008 recession have continued to pursue risky investments.

Moshe Wander

Five Years Later, Banks Learned No Lessons

I f you believe the reassurance-
es coming out of Washington D.C., the financial crisis that hit America after the collapse of Lehman Brothers Holdings Inc. five years ago is not likely to be repeated. They say the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act, passed in mid-2010, will “make sure that a crisis like this never happens again,” according to the White House official website.

That’s quite a big promise, but there is growing evidence that a crisis like the panic of 2008 could very well happen again. Although memories of the crisis are still fresh in the minds of laid-off workers and families that lost their homes, it seems to be a distant memory to bankers and their captured regulators.

The threats of concentration in the financial industry and the ex-losion of student debt have made another banking collapse a serious possibility. Recently, Robert H. Bensmos-che, the chief executive officer of American International Group Inc., (a massive insurance conglomerate and recipient of billions in bailout money), told The Wall Street Journal that “too big to fail has been solved.”

Bensomchese might like to think so, but the facts show otherwise.

Since the financial crisis, assets of the six biggest banks in the U.S. are up 37 percent and now control an even greater share of wealth than they did at the time of the crisis. Last week, Fortune Magazine declared, “By every measure, the big banks are bigger. Last year, Politico reported banks deemed too big to fail were “bigger than ever.”

The acquisition of Bear Stearns and Washington Mutual by JPMor-
pen Chase, Merrill Lynch by Bank of America and Wachovia by Wells Fargo have all contributed to this problem.

It would be nice to imagine that the banking system is safer than it was prior to the financial crisis, but the banks are engaging in the same practices that created the crisis, and on a larger scale.

As if buying up competitors isn’t enough, the big banks have jumped right back into the “shadow derivatives market”— where transactions occur outside the overview of traditional banks — that was culpable in the financial crisis. Banking reformer and attorney Ellen Brown highlighted how the value of the entire derivatives market, at $1.2 trillion, is 20 times the size of the world economy.

Since 2005, these transactions have been backed by the government, creating more perverse incentives for big banks to load up on risk. But it’s not just derivatives and conglomeration. Student loans may be the nail in the coffin for the next financial crisis.

The parallels between the housing sector and the student loan bubble are deep. In both cases, the federal government’s low interest rates and subsidized loans have incentivized banks to lend out money that they wouldn’t otherwise lend. And both cases share the good intentions of the federal government wanting to make something (hom-ownership and college education, respectively) affordable for people who are living on a tight budget. Writing in Rolling Stone magaazine, financial reporter Matt Taibbi compared the explosion in student debt (accounting for over 67 percent of last quarter’s rise in non-real estate household debt) to the growth of mortgage debt prior to the collapse of the housing market, which trigerged the financial crisis in 2008.

Since student loan debt recent-
tly topped $1 trillion and outpaced credit card debt for the first time ever, the next crisis could be even worse than the last one.

Although making college affordable is a worthy goal, the government’s subsidized loans may have the adverse effect of destabilizing the already fragile financial system.

Five years after a devastating recession, unemployment and underemployment remain high. And although Americans are tired of this terrible economy, the biggest banks are reaping the same acts that led to the crisis in 2008, and there’s no reason to expect this won’t happen again.

Moshe Wander is an undeclared freshman.

Articles in the Opinion section represent the views of the individual authors only and not the views of The Santa Clara or Santa Clara University.
Federal Shutdown is Shameful and Futile

Jonathan Tomczak

As the song goes: How do you solve a problem like the U.S. Congress? For the first time in 17 years, Congress failed to pass a bill authorizing the federal government to spend money, and so the government closed its doors at national parks, museums, NASA and many other federal departments.

And the worst part? It should never have happened. Like the Cleveland Browns beating the Cincinnati Bengals, the shutdown was once an unfathomable scenario that could only happen as the result of several insane moves coming together perfectly: President Barack Obama, Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid and Speaker of the House John Boehner all said long ago that they absolutely did not want to be in this situation.

Then how did it happen? The easy answer is the usual suspects in the Tea Party, but it goes deeper than that. It goes back to what Boehner said three years ago, and the system in which he works. When Obamacare was still only a bill sitting up on Capitol Hill, Boehner was minority leader in the House. The White House and congressional Democrats made several overtures to Republicans to make the bill bipartisan. They were willing to accept ideas such as cracking down on Medicare fraud, dumping the public option and introducing the individual mandate. Let no one forget, the mandate was an idea generated by a conservative think tank in the 1990s, not Democrats.

Boehner’s response? No. Every time, at every opportunity. No, no, no. The idea was that the bill would be a Democrat-led monstrosity, and Republicans would ride it to victory in the 2010 elections, giving Boehner the Speakership. Well, good job, Boehner, because your plan has come back to bite you. But to some extent, Boehner is just a cog in a very broken machine. The system itself is crippled. Fundamental changes across the board would be needed to prevent another breakdown this cataclysmic.

Nixon had twice as much support as Boehner has, and he was a Republican. He’s a lifelong politician — not a Ted Cruz-esque flash-in-the-pan ideologue. Yet from the get-go he’s been hampered by the rabid fervor of the Tea Party, and his party doesn’t even want to address his issues or lose any remaining semblance of control. They’re safe in their protected districts. Now it has come to this, where Congress’ approval rating has hit 10 percent.

Boehner’s response? No. Every time, at every opportunity. No, no, no. The idea was that the bill would be a Democrat-led monstrosity, and Republicans would ride it to victory in the 2010 elections, giving Boehner the Speakership. Well, good job, Boehner, because your plan has come back to bite you. Boehner, by all measures, is a moderate Republican. He’s a lifelong politician — not a Ted Cruz-esque flash-in-the-pan ideologue. Yet from the get-go he’s been hampered by the rabid fervor of the Tea Party, and his party doesn’t even want to address his issues or lose any remaining semblance of control. They’re safe in their protected districts. Now it has come to this, where Congress’ approval rating has hit 10 percent.

Boehner’s response? No. Every time, at every opportunity. No, no, no. The idea was that the bill would be a Democrat-led monstrosity, and Republicans would ride it to victory in the 2010 elections, giving Boehner the Speakership. Well, good job, Boehner, because your plan has come back to bite you. Boehner’s response? No. Every time, at every opportunity. No, no, no. The idea was that the bill would be a Democrat-led monstrosity, and Republicans would ride it to victory in the 2010 elections, giving Boehner the Speakership. Well, good job, Boehner, because your plan has come back to bite you.

Without ever leaving PwC.

© 2013 PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP, a Delaware limited liability partnership. All rights reserved. PwC refers to the United States member firm, and may sometimes refer to the PwC network. Each member firm is a separate legal entity. Please see www.pwc.com/structure for further details. We are proud to be an Affirmative Action and Equal Opportunity Employer.
Students took initiative for their health to bypass the struggle against spreading viruses.

Fall concert Draws Diverse Crowd of Fans

This year’s Fall Concert, put on by the Activities Programming Board, featured the eclectic singer Nick Checo and alternative rock group Young The Giant. Leavey Event Center filled with students eager for a concert with a different sound from previous years. The Los Angeles-based band performed an energetic show that had many students dancing and singing along. The show was a hit amongst those familiar with Young The Giant and created new fans as well.

Cowell Provides Preventative Healthcare

Students avoid seasonal illness using campus clinics

The flu spreads across college campuses nationwide every year and Santa Clara certainly isn’t an exception. Close living quarters, shared restrooms and frequent social activities are all factors that make students susceptible to catching the flu, especially during the winter season when immune systems can already be compromised. Cowell Student Health Center is preparing for the flu season early this year by hosting immunization clinics in Benson Memorial Center throughout the month of October. The first clinic took place this past Tuesday, with vaccinations administered to all 232 people who attended.

The flu vaccine is the best protection against the flu season. Sophomore Leyla Collazzo was one of those who attended the immunization clinic in Benson on Tuesday. “It’s an easy and inexpensive way to stay healthy and prevent myself and others from getting sick and missing class,” she said.

Collazzo was able to avoid the flu last year because she got vaccinated. It is important for students to get vaccinated annually because flu viruses are constantly mutating, and vaccines are designed to protect humans against the strain that is most likely to be present in the upcoming season.

Early immunization is the most effective, but it is not too late to get the vaccine this month, or in the near future. In addition to receiving immunizations, students are encouraged to frequently wash their hands and take other precautions against the spread of illness.

For those who missed the first clinic and still want to get vaccinated, there will be another clinic offered on Oct. 21 in Benson Parlor B and C from 9:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Shots are $25 each.

Contact Taneish Figueroa at tfigueroa@scu.edu.
Thumbs Up, Thumbs Down

Associate Reporter

School is in full swing and it is often easy to fall into a pattern, especially when it comes to food. While Benson Memorial Center, Safeway and Ike’s Place are convenient and close, sometimes looking for spots to eat a little farther from campus is a great, unique treat.

If you are looking for a new adventure in ethnic fare, check out Oren’s Hummus Shop in Palo Alto. Oren’s is a fantastic Israeli restaurant with the best hummus around. Owner Oren Dobronsky, a technologist in the Silicon Valley, realized that he missed the hummus, pita and Mediterranean salad from his native Tel-Aviv. Thus, he and his wife, Nancy, opened Oren’s Hummus Shop in the hopes of bringing together hummus lovers from all over the Bay Area.

The restaurant follows five principles for its cuisine: authentic, fresh, healthy, convenient and sustainable. The shop strives to be as culturally pure as possible by importing ingredients from Israel in order to create the traditional tastes found in Tel-Aviv.

New batches of hummus and pita are prepared many times throughout the day, keeping things fresh. Oren’s believes that it is their duty to be as environmentally friendly as possible by recycling everything from oil to paper, and composting organic waste.

Oren’s Hummus Shop offers a unique selection of Israeli cuisine ranging from entrées focused entirely on hummus, grilled meat, fresh salads and some Israeli cuisine classics. Almost everything on the menu is gluten-free and there are plenty of vegan choices.

You absolutely cannot leave the restaurant without trying the house-made hummus. This is no ordinary hummus — its creamy consistency is simply perfect with some fresh pita.

So go try something new and take a bite out of Oren’s Hummus Shop, a delicious taste of Israeli food.

Contact Lauren Bonney at lbonney@scu.edu.

Oren’s Hummus Shop brings a gourmet array of Mediterranean cuisine to the table. Whether you are an adventurous eater or not, come enjoy tasty and authentic flavors.

Lauren’s Locales: Hummus Shop Spices It Up

School is in full swing and it is often easy to fall into a pattern, especially when it comes to food. While Benson Memorial Center, Safeway and Ike’s Place are convenient and close, sometimes looking for spots to eat a little farther from campus is a great, unique treat.

If you are looking for a new adventure in ethnic fare, check out Oren’s Hummus Shop in Palo Alto. Oren’s is a fantastic Israeli restaurant with the best hummus around. Owner Oren Dobronsky, a technologist in the Silicon Valley, realized that he missed the hummus, pita and Mediterranean salad from his native Tel-Aviv. Thus, he and his wife, Nancy, opened Oren’s Hummus Shop in the hopes of bringing together hummus lovers from all over the Bay Area.

The restaurant follows five principles for its cuisine: authentic, fresh, healthy, convenient and sustainable. The shop strives to be as culturally pure as possible by importing ingredients from Israel in order to create the traditional tastes found in Tel-Aviv.

New batches of hummus and pita are prepared many times throughout the day, keeping things fresh. Oren’s believes that it is their duty to be as environmentally friendly as possible by recycling everything from oil to paper, and composting organic waste.

Oren’s Hummus Shop offers a unique selection of Israeli cuisine ranging from entrées focused entirely on hummus, grilled meat, fresh salads and some Israeli cuisine classics. Almost everything on the menu is gluten-free and there are plenty of vegan choices.

You absolutely cannot leave the restaurant without trying the house-made hummus. This is no ordinary hummus — its creamy consistency is simply perfect with some fresh pita.

So go try something new and take a bite out of Oren’s Hummus Shop, a delicious taste of Israeli food.

Contact Lauren Bonney at lbonney@scu.edu.

Oren’s Hummus Shop brings a gourmet array of Mediterranean cuisine to the table. Whether you are an adventurous eater or not, come enjoy tasty and authentic flavors.

Lauren’s Locales: Hummus Shop Spices It Up

School is in full swing and it is often easy to fall into a pattern, especially when it comes to food. While Benson Memorial Center, Safeway and Ike’s Place are convenient and close, sometimes looking for spots to eat a little farther from campus is a great, unique treat.

If you are looking for a new adventure in ethnic fare, check out Oren’s Hummus Shop in Palo Alto. Oren’s is a fantastic Israeli restaurant with the best hummus around. Owner Oren Dobronsky, a technologist in the Silicon Valley, realized that he missed the hummus, pita and Mediterranean salad from his native Tel-Aviv. Thus, he and his wife, Nancy, opened Oren’s Hummus Shop in the hopes of bringing together hummus lovers from all over the Bay Area.

The restaurant follows five principles for its cuisine: authentic, fresh, healthy, convenient and sustainable. The shop strives to be as culturally pure as possible by importing ingredients from Israel in order to create the traditional tastes found in Tel-Aviv.

New batches of hummus and pita are prepared many times throughout the day, keeping things fresh. Oren’s believes that it is their duty to be as environmentally friendly as possible by recycling everything from oil to paper, and composting organic waste.

Oren’s Hummus Shop offers a unique selection of Israeli cuisine ranging from entrées focused entirely on hummus, grilled meat, fresh salads and some Israeli cuisine classics. Almost everything on the menu is gluten-free and there are plenty of vegan choices.

You absolutely cannot leave the restaurant without trying the house-made hummus. This is no ordinary hummus — its creamy consistency is simply perfect with some fresh pita.

So go try something new and take a bite out of Oren’s Hummus Shop, a delicious taste of Israeli food.

Contact Lauren Bonney at lbonney@scu.edu.

Oren’s Hummus Shop brings a gourmet array of Mediterranean cuisine to the table. Whether you are an adventurous eater or not, come enjoy tasty and authentic flavors.

Lauren’s Locales: Hummus Shop Spices It Up

School is in full swing and it is often easy to fall into a pattern, especially when it comes to food. While Benson Memorial Center, Safeway and Ike’s Place are convenient and close, sometimes looking for spots to eat a little farther from campus is a great, unique treat.

If you are looking for a new adventure in ethnic fare, check out Oren’s Hummus Shop in Palo Alto. Oren’s is a fantastic Israeli restaurant with the best hummus around. Owner Oren Dobronsky, a technologist in the Silicon Valley, realized that he missed the hummus, pita and Mediterranean salad from his native Tel-Aviv. Thus, he and his wife, Nancy, opened Oren’s Hummus Shop in the hopes of bringing together hummus lovers from all over the Bay Area.

The restaurant follows five principles for its cuisine: authentic, fresh, healthy, convenient and sustainable. The shop strives to be as culturally pure as possible by importing ingredients from Israel in order to create the traditional tastes found in Tel-Aviv.

New batches of hummus and pita are prepared many times throughout the day, keeping things fresh. Oren’s believes that it is their duty to be as environmentally friendly as possible by recycling everything from oil to paper, and composting organic waste.

Oren’s Hummus Shop offers a unique selection of Israeli cuisine ranging from entrées focused entirely on hummus, grilled meat, fresh salads and some Israeli cuisine classics. Almost everything on the menu is gluten-free and there are plenty of vegan choices.

You absolutely cannot leave the restaurant without trying the house-made hummus. This is no ordinary hummus — its creamy consistency is simply perfect with some fresh pita.

So go try something new and take a bite out of Oren’s Hummus Shop, a delicious taste of Israeli food.

Contact Lauren Bonney at lbonney@scu.edu.
10/3 | THURSDAY

“Monsters University” Movie Night
Time: 9 p.m.
Location: Locatelli Student Activity Center Lawn
Why Go? Check out Pixar’s latest hit movie, “Monsters University.”

Associated Student Government Position Information Session
Time: 7 p.m.
Location: Keena Hall, Room 104
Why Go? If you are interested in a position with ASG, you must attend an information session to learn about how to apply, how to campaign and more.

Reza Aslan
Time: 7 p.m.
Location: Mayer Theatre
Why Go? Author Reza Aslan will be on campus talking about his New York Times best-selling book, “Zealot: The Life and Times of Jesus of Nazareth.” He will discuss the surrounding controversy as well as his experience on Fox News. No tickets necessary.

10/4 | FRIDAY

“The Magic of Water” with Kathy Machado
Time: 12 p.m. - 1 p.m.
Location: Kennedy Mall, Commons at Kennedy Mall
Why Go? Guest speaker Kathy Machado of the Santa Clara Valley Water District will be discussing the happenings at the Water District. Come and hear all about it, as well as career choices, internships opportunities and more.

San Jose Chamber Orchestra Concert — Luncheon at Trianon Series
Time: 12:10 p.m.
Location: Le Petit Trianon Theatre, San Jose
Why Go? Come enjoy the talents of the San Jose Chamber Orchestra as they perform in the beautiful Trianon Theatre. The show is a part of an ongoing art series featuring local performers and artists of all types. Cost: Free

10/5 | SATURDAY

Women’s Volleyball vs. Gonzaga University
Time: 1 p.m.
Location: Leavey Event Center
Why Go? Check out your fellow Broncos right here on their home court as they take on the Gonzaga Bulldogs.

10/6 | SUNDAY

Liturgy
Time: 10 a.m., 6 p.m. and 9 p.m.
Location: Mission Church

Castro Street Fair
Time: 11 a.m. - 6 p.m.
Location: Castro District, downtown San Francisco
Why Go? Founded by Harvey Milk in 1974, the Castro Street Fair is an amazing way to explore more of the city’s culture. Located in the heart of the Castro District at the intersection of Market and Castro Streets, the fair features performers on multiple stages, local merchants and exhibitors.

10/7 | MONDAY

Trayvon Martin, Race and Justice: A Panel Discussion
Time: 5:30 p.m.
Location: California Mission Room
Why Go? The Markkula Center for Applied Ethics brings a discussion to campus for faculty and students alike. Explore the impact and implications of this summer’s legal case surrounding Trayvon Martin. Speakers Christopher Bisci, Margaret Russell and contributors from the School of Law will lead the discussion.

10/8 | TUESDAY

14th Annual Multicultural Welcome Dinner and Dessert Reception for New Students
Time: 5 p.m.
Location: Locatelli Student Activity Center
Why Go? This annual celebration welcomes first-year and transfer students of color. This event is a great opportunity to meet current students and faculty to find out more information about cultural programs, activities and resources on campus.

Ethics at Noon: Stem Cells, Cloning and the Conscience of a Nation
Time: 12 p.m.
Location: Arts and Sciences Building, The Wiegand Room
Why Go? Dr. William Hurlbut, physician and professor at Stanford University’s Neuroscience Institute will explore the ethical issues associated with advancing biomedical technology.

10/9 | WEDNESDAY

Winter Break Immersion Applications Due
Time: 3 p.m.
Why Go? Applications for immersion trips through the Ignatian Center to New Orleans, Ecuador, Oakland and Arizona are due today. Make sure to apply if you are interested in making a difference and becoming a part of another community.

To suggest events for the calendar please contact Summer Meza at sameza@scu.edu.
Two Wins End in Milestone

Broncos wrap up nonconference play in winning fashion

Ivan Munoz  The Santa Clara

Longtime Head Coach Jerry Smith won his 400th career match Sunday afternoon following a 4-0 rout of California Polytechnic State University. Smith’s milestone capped off a weekend in which the Broncos won two games against the University of Kansas Jayhawks and Cal Poly Mustangs.

The first win came Friday night when the Broncos edged the Jayhawks by a score of 3-2 at Buck Shaw Stadium. The Broncos picked up their second win of the weekend on Sunday afternoon after defeating Cal Poly. The Broncos improved to 6-3-1 on the season with the two wins. Saturday’s match proved to be a close one for the Broncos as they narrowly defeated the Jayhawks by one goal. The match started off with a bang after junior Sofia Huerta scored just five minutes after kickoff.

Huerta continued to be a potent factor in propelling the Broncos to victory. Despite a close game throughout, the Broncos outshot the Jayhawks by a score of 3-2. Sofia Huerta scored just five minutes after kickoff.

Senior Alyssa Anderson recorded 17 digs and five assists. The first half concluded with the deficit to just one goal. But the Santa Clara defense remained strong and the Broncos were able to hold off Kansas by a score of 3-2.

Saturday’s match turned out to be a breeze for the Broncos as they defeated the Cal Poly Mustangs 4-0, giving Smith his milestone win. Senior Allison Vernon scored the first goal in the 17th minute off a header that came from a chip pass by freshman teammate Jordan Jessel. The Broncos outshot the Mustangs in the first half by a wide margin of 10-1, clearly showing their dominance over the away side.

Goalkeeper Andi Tostanoski commented on the win: “They make it easier, obviously, but at the same time, they make it harder because I have to stay connected with them even if we don’t have a lot of pressure on us,” said Tostanoski.

Tostanoski recorded two saves to aid in the shutout victory.

The second half was most notable for two goals scored by the Broncos, one from the head of senior Morgan Marlborough and the other coming from the foot of Jesolva. The Broncos back line put in a strong performance to go along with the offensive outpouring of goals. Senior defender Ellie Rice highlighted the keys to Santa Clara’s success on defense.

“Having a good defense isn’t just individual performance, it’s basically all being on the same page and the back four or the back three with our goalie,” Rice said. “If we’re on the same page and we are working hard and covering for each other, we will continue to perform well as we have done so in the past.”

The women’s soccer team will begin play in the West Coast Conference on Oct. 10 versus the University of San Diego.

Contact Ivan Munoz at imuoz@scu.edu or call (408) 554-4852.

---

Men’s Soccer

The Broncos will begin their season Oct. 4.

Women’s Soccer

Women’s Volleyball

Upcoming Games

Men’s Water Polo

Santa Clara

Women’s Water Polo

Standing

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Team</th>
<th>WCC</th>
<th>Overall</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Loyola Marymount</td>
<td>0-0</td>
<td>4-2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Portland</td>
<td>0-0</td>
<td>5-3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Saint Mary’s</td>
<td>0-0</td>
<td>2-4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>San Francisco</td>
<td>0-0</td>
<td>3-3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gonzaga</td>
<td>0-0</td>
<td>5-2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Santa Clara</td>
<td>0-0</td>
<td>3-3</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Overall: 6-0

Women’s Volleyball

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Team</th>
<th>WCC</th>
<th>Overall</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Loyola Marymount</td>
<td>0-0</td>
<td>4-2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Portland</td>
<td>0-0</td>
<td>8-1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pepperdine</td>
<td>0-0</td>
<td>5-3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>San Francisco</td>
<td>0-0</td>
<td>3-3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Santa Clara (No. 17)</td>
<td>0-0</td>
<td>6-3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gonzaga</td>
<td>0-0</td>
<td>4-5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Saint Mary’s</td>
<td>0-0</td>
<td>4-7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pacific</td>
<td>0-0</td>
<td>1-2</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Overall: 6-0

Women’s Water Polo

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Team</th>
<th>WWPA</th>
<th>Overall</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Santa Clara</td>
<td>0-0</td>
<td>9-4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>UC San Diego</td>
<td>1-0</td>
<td>10-3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Loyola Marymount</td>
<td>0-1</td>
<td>5-6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>UC Davis</td>
<td>1-0</td>
<td>5-8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>California Baptist</td>
<td>0-2</td>
<td>5-6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Air Force</td>
<td>1-0</td>
<td>4-7</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Overall: 6-0

Men’s Water Polo

Santa Clara

Men’s Soccer

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Team</th>
<th>Overall</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Brigham Young</td>
<td>3-0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Loyola Marymount</td>
<td>3-1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>San Francisco</td>
<td>2-1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pepperdine</td>
<td>2-2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pacific</td>
<td>2-2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>San Diego (No. 8)</td>
<td>1-2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Santa Clara</td>
<td>1-2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gonzaga</td>
<td>1-3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Portland</td>
<td>0-4</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Overall: 6-0

Upcoming Games

Men’s Volleyball

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Team</th>
<th>Overall</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Santa Clara</td>
<td>2-6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Loyola Marymount</td>
<td>0-6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>UC Davis</td>
<td>1-0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>California Baptist</td>
<td>0-2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Air Force</td>
<td>1-0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Overall: 6-0

Men’s Water Polo

Santa Clara

Women’s Volleyball

Men’s Water Polo

Santa Clara

UPCOMING GAMES

Men’s Soccer

Santa Clara @ San Diego  Fri. 10/4 7:00 p.m.

Santa Clara @ Loyola Marymount  Sun. 10/6 1:00 p.m.

Women’s Volleyball

Portland @ Santa Clara  Thu. 10/3 6:00 p.m.

Gonzaga @ Santa Clara  Sat. 10/5 1:00 p.m.

Men’s Water Polo

Santa Clara @ Stanford  Sat. 10/5 5:00 p.m.

Men’s Soccer

The Broncos three-game winning streak came to an end Friday evening after they were defeated by the University of California, Berkeley, 1-0 in overtime. The Golden Bears’ senior midfielder Alec Sundley scored the game-winning goal 10 minutes into the first overtime period.

The No. 2 Golden Bears had the upper hand offensively throughout the match. They outshot the Broncos 14-4 overall and 6-0 in shots on goal.

Friday’s match marked the end of nonconference play for the Broncos. The team will begin West Coast Conference play at the University of San Diego on Oct. 4.
Fresh Faces Shine Bright for Bronco Athletics

Graham McClone
- Year: Freshman
- Hometown: Placerville, Calif.
- High school: Ponderosa
- Sport: Men’s Water Polo

High School Accomplishments:
- Member of his All-Section team in 2011 and 2012
- Recorded 206 goals during his senior season
- U.S. Water Polo All-American
- Member of U.S. Youth National Training Team

2013 Season Statistics:
- 13 goals
- 9 assists
- 5 steals

Jordan Jesolva
- Year: Freshman
- Hometown: La Mirada, Calif.
- High school: Sorrento
- Sport: Women’s Soccer

High School Accomplishments:
- Member of 2009 All-Academic Team
- Member of the 2009 All-CIF Team

Club Accomplishments:
- Member of 2012 National League Champion Team
- Member of 2012 State and Regional Champion Team

2013 Season Statistics:
- Has played in 10 games
- 2 goals
- 1 assist

Annie Freman
- Year: Freshman
- Hometown: Las Vegas, Nev.
- High school: Faith Lutheran
- Sport: Women’s Golf

High School Accomplishments:
- Sunset Region Player of the Year in 2009, 2011 and 2012
- Runner-up in the 2012 Trusted Choice/Big “I” Championships
- Finished tied for ninth place at the 2012 USGA Girls’ Championship

2013 Season Statistics:
- Three top-10 finishes
- Finished one round under par

Parker Holland
- Year: Freshman
- Hometown: San Diego, Calif.
- High school: Cathedral Catholic
- Sport: Men’s Soccer

High School Accomplishments:
- Starting defender on high school soccer team as a freshman

Club Accomplishments:
- Member of 2012 Under-15/16 Academy Playoff team

2013 Season Statistics:
- Has played in 7 games
- 1 goal
- 2 shots on goal

---

Master of Arts in Youth Ministry

Powerful. Flexible. Practical.

Azusa Pacific’s biblically centered Master of Arts in Youth Ministry (MAYM) program prepares men and women for the specialized field of youth and family ministry.

Learn from leading experts

Study under thought leaders in youth and family ministry, such as Jim Burns, Doug Fields, and Mark DeVries.

Flexible format

Choose from online courses and one-week summer intensives, or a traditional classroom setting.

Hands-on experience

Intentional integration of academic and experiential components enhances learning and advances your career.

For more information on the MAYM program, contact the Graduate Center at (626) 815-4564 or gradadmissions@apu.edu, or visit apu.edu/maym.

Other degree programs offered:
- D.Min.
- M.Div.
- Pastoral Studies, M.A.
- (Theological Studies), M.A.
College Football Forecasted

Approaching Week 6 of the college football season, many things are as they were expected to be.

The University of Alabama is still on top and the University of Oregon is still really, really fast.

However, Clemson University has stopped “Clemsoning,” or losing to teams they shouldn’t lose to. And the University of Georgia, despite their Week 1 loss to Clemson, is looking like a legitimate threat to end the Crimson Tide’s dominance.

The Pacific-12 Conference, however, has five teams that can win the conference and possibly make it to the championship game. Oregon, Stanford University, the University of Washington, the University of California, Los Angeles and even Arizona State University have very real shots at winning the Pac-12 and — besides ASU — the national championship.

The Pac-12 is arguably the second strongest conference in the country. Whoever survives the difficult road through the Pac-12 should get precedence over an undefeated Big 12 Conference. Atlantic Coast Conference or Big Ten Conference team as well as a one-loss SEC team.

The Big 12 has only two contenders left in Baylor University and the University of Texas. LSU’s chances at making a championship run are still alive. The University of Michigan, keeps winning but no one else looks very shaky. Ohio State University is very solid this year with possibly the toughest schedule run are still alive. The University of Michigan, after beating the University of Notre Dame, 41-30, in Week 2, has struggled against the University of Akron and the University of Connecticut. Also, against the Pac-12, the Big Ten has gone only 1-3.

The new-look offensive SEC looks very solid this year with possibly three national title contenders in Alabama, Georgia and Louisiana State University. Despite losing to Georgia, LSU’s chances at making a championship run are still alive.

Whoever gets through the grueling SEC and Pac-12 schedules will face each other in the national title game.

About halfway into the season, my way-too-early predictions for the games are as follows:

The Pac-12 runner-up will defeat Big Ten champion Ohio State, 49-35 in the Rose Bowl.

Big 12 champion Oklahoma will beat at-large bid Louisville in the Fiesta Bowl, 35-11.

In the Sugar Bowl, Alabama, the SEC runner-up, will roll at-large bid Pennsylvania State University, 52-17.

ACC champion Clemson will win the Orange Bowl, 56-48, over Big 12 runner-up Baylor.

Finally, in the BCS Title Game, Pac-12 champion Oregon will face Georgia. The Ducks will put an end to the SEC’s dominance once and for all, defeating the Bulldogs 27-22.

Tyler J. Scott

SporTS

Thursday, October 3, 2013

Cross-Country Races to Finish

The Bronco cross-country teams took a trip up north this weekend to participate in the 40th annual Stanford Invitational in Palo Alto, Calif. The Santa Clara men finished in fifth place while the women’s team came in eighth.

Over 2,800 high school and 500 collegiate runners competed in 14 races Saturday morning. Stanford University swept its own meet and won both the men’s 8K race and women’s 6K race. After a strong start to the season, both cross-country squads ended in good standing after Saturday’s racing.

“Both the men’s and women’s teams had some solid individual performances,” said Head Coach Felipe Montoro in an email.

However, Montoro was not completely satisfied with the runners’ performances.

“Both teams executed some parts of our race plan very well, but we still have things to improve upon as we continue through the season,” he said. “The next three weeks will be very important in preparing for the [West Coast Conference] Championships.”

After two weeks off to start school and focus on training, the Broncos hit the ground running.

The Pac-12, the ACC champion Clemson will win the title.

Men and women land in the top eight at Stanford

Sydney Sanchez

The Santa Clara

The Bronco cross-country teams took a trip up north this weekend to participate in the 40th annual Stanford Invitational in Palo Alto, Calif. The Santa Clara men finished in fifth place while the women’s team came in eighth.

Over 2,800 high school and 500 collegiate runners competed in 14 races Saturday morning. Stanford University swept its own meet and won both the men’s 8K race and women’s 6K race. After a strong start to the season, both cross-country squads ended in good standing after Saturday’s racing.

“Both the men’s and women’s teams had some solid individual performances,” said Head Coach Felipe Montoro in an email.

However, Montoro was not completely satisfied with the runners’ performances.

“Both teams executed some parts of our race plan very well, but we still have things to improve upon as we continue through the season,” he said. “The next three weeks will be very important in preparing for the [West Coast Conference] Championships.”

After two weeks off to start school and focus on training, the Broncos hit the ground running.

The Pac-12, the ACC champion Clemson will win the title.

Men and women land in the top eight at Stanford

Sydney Sanchez

The Santa Clara

The Santa Clara men and women’s cross-country teams took part in the Stanford Invitational on Saturday. Senior Ben Demaree highlighted the Broncos’ success. The next time the Broncos will lace up their racing shoes will be Oct. 11 in San Francisco, Calif.

The Bronco men’s team defeated the University of San Diego and Pepperdine University while the women’s team topped Pepperdine and St. Mary’s.

Santa Clara will race in two more invitational meets before the WCC Championships take place in early November.

“Our next race is in Golden Gate Park and we are looking forward to it,” said Montero.

The Santa Clara Broncos will race in the upcoming San Francisco State Invitational on Oct. 11.

Contact Sydney Sanchez at sanchez@sccsu.edu or call (408) 554-4852.

Must See: Women’s Volleyball

SCU vs. GON

1:00 p.m. Saturday, October 5 at the Leavey Center

For a complete schedule of games, see page 10.

Tyler J. Scott is a sophomore marketing major.

The Santa Clara men and women’s cross-country teams took part in the Stanford Invitational on Saturday. Senior Ben Demaree highlighted the Broncos’ success. The next time the Broncos will lace up their racing shoes will be Oct. 11 in San Francisco, Calif.

The Bronco men’s team defeated the University of San Diego and Pepperdine University while the women’s team topped Pepperdine and St. Mary’s.

Santa Clara will race in two more invitational meets before the WCC Championships take place in early November.

“Our next race is in Golden Gate Park and we are looking forward to it,” said Montero.

The Santa Clara Broncos will race in the upcoming San Francisco State Invitational on Oct. 11.

Contact Sydney Sanchez at sanchez@sccsu.edu or call (408) 554-4852.